In 1930, Joe Bohl entered life as Depression-Era baby being one of twelve siblings of a North Dakota farming family. Life was hard growing up on the farm which had no electrical power until 1946, so eventually, Joe had to drop out of school in 8th grade to help work the family farm.

He played drums for the North Dakota Ramblers band on weekends throughout the region until joining the Army in 1951. After leaving the army, he settled in Denver, Colorado in 1960 and worked in construction until he retired. After surviving lymphoma cancer in 2005, he relocated to Texas to live with his daughter and later, his son. His hobbies included hunting, fishing, dancing, and teaching the Polka to anyone who wanted to learn!

Joseph is survived by his daughters: Linda Bohl of Milton, FL and Susan and husband, Dell Bryant of North Richland Hills, TX; son, Greg Bohl of Muenster, TX; four grandchildren; sisters: Margaret Williamson of Pensacola, FL, Theresa Burnworth of Oklahoma City, OK, and Barbara Recktenwald of San
